Requesting new features

This article is about new features. This is not the same as Customisation. Please read Customisation for more information.

You can request us to add new features. Opposed to customisation, where you can write your own custom code (generation) for very specific features, you can request us to build a new feature that is quite common but currently lacking. We will then consider building it. It may even already be in the process of being built!

When submitting a request to add new features to the AI-Framework, please go to the form to request new features for the AI-Framework.
